

A Relationship Broken

We have solid grounds for believing in God.

1: The fact that something is proves something has always been

2: Belief in God as having always existed appears the most reasonable alternative.

